A Review of What Has Been Done Maine Development

The growing interest shown by newspapers and magazines in the activities going on in the State of Maine and especially the cooperation editorials in all editions of the United States are making the work of the Maine Development Commission, headed by Vico C. Teola, Executive Secretary of the Commission. More than 775 columns of articles and photographs sent out by the Commission in the first half of 1934. Full pages at eight column rate, have been published between February and July 15, a period of five and a half months. This is in addition to motion picture releases, posters, folders, low displays, signs, posters, folders and literature furnished direct in letters to more than 15,000 organizations, and a list from the regular state advertising list issued by the Commission.

Mr. Teola's check on the advertising rates of the newspapers and magazines which have opened their columns to Maine shows that the cost to the state would be $41,000 for the five and a half months period, or $8,200 per month. At this rate, Maine will receive more than $1,150,000 more than the entire advertising appropriation for 1934. At this rate, Maine will receive more than $1,600,000 of free space in twelve months with no valuation placed upon motion pictures, radio and other forms of publicity sponsored by the state. Altogether, the space total is reckoned only conservatively, and the space returned to the office of the Commission, and on file in its press is of national attention.

One Maine enterprise which has been the subject of letters and telegrams to the office of the Commission, is the state's first Economic Conference, which took place at Bangor on May 18 and 19, 1934. The subject of interest in all parts of the United States, and more than 230 columns of space were devoted to news editorial, pictures and photographs and many besides. The comment was especially noteworthy editorial by "The New York Times" being reprinted in several other newspapers as the best advertisement for the "Boston News Bureau" was reprinted in New York, Philadelphia and other newspapers, and the "Boston American" and similar publications. The large circulation of the "Impartialist" to praise of Maine's initiative and enterprise. Clippings on the conference still coming in, more than two and a half months later, and the "Impartialist" in the Union is represented in the State of Maine Pageant at the dedication of the Carleton B. Page and something over 265 columns of articles and photographs have been sent out to all over the country. A total 2005 columns preceded the opening of the 1905 season. Although the first 100 pages were printed on this celebrated paper, Massachusetts newspapers alone carried 39 pageant stories, and other clippings have been received.

In addition to the newspaper notice, a pageant received, there was broadcast for six nights from WCHS, Portland, with one of the speeches written by L. J. Tarkenton. Six thousand copies of the program and 10,000 windshields were distributed in 60 towns and cities on a special road man. Eighty golf 104 boys' camps, 80 girls' camps, 100 hotels in Maine, 100 hotels in New England, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut received posters, and windshield stickers were distributed through the courtesy of Maine Central Railroad. More than 4,000 copies of the program were distributed to the state, by the Maine Publicity Bureau, the Androscoggin & Kennebec Railroad, and the Cumberland Light & Power Board. The Maine Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis (Club and Rotary) and the State also assisted in this distribution of publicity material.

General publicity releases issued in the summer of 1905 included the following:

tained 250 columns in the five and a half months. These articles and photographs have covered subjects such as the work of the Aroostook potatoes, really the diamonds, the Cities and Towns Camp industries, presentation of the Penobscot salmon to President Coolidge, the Maine Fair, Bangor, the Aroostook camps, tourist trade, winter roads, canoeing, winter sports, resort news, and the Eastern Maine Music Festival. Employment, William Lath Memorial, Bath, Bath and Bangor, the Aroostook, blueberries, mountain climbing and marine sports. Photographs accompanying these articles have been supplied for special editions of the "Daily Maine Statesman," "Providence Journal," "New York Evening Post," "Boston Herald," "Boston Transcript," "Boston Globe," "New York World" and similar large newspapers. Readers of the Statesman, Boston, New York and Philadelphia re-have been supplied with photographs.

 Paul Stands for Christian Liberty.

1. The Controversy in the Church at Antioch (vv. 1-5).

This difficulty was a most serious one, for it threatened the disruption of the church into Jewish and Gentile divisions. It was not a question of the admission of the Gentiles into the church, but of the manner of their admission.

2. The question now was, on what ground can they be received? Should Gentile converts be required to keep the Mosaic law as a condition of salvation? This issue was brought on by the coming of certain men from Jerusalem, who declared, "Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved (v. 1)."

3. The question was so difficult that Paul and Barnabas were unable to put them to silence. These Jewish legalists had the letter of the Scripture on their side. They could point to the command where this was enjoined upon believers (Gen. 17:10).

4. The deliberations of the Council (vv. 6-21).

1. Peter's speech (vv. 6-11). He argued that God had borne witness to His acceptance of the Gentiles by giving the Holy Spirit to them as unto the Jews (Acts 10:44-47). Since therefore, God had not put a difference it would be folly for them to do so.

2. Paul and Barnabas rehearsed their experience (v. 12).

They told how that God had set His seal of approval on their preaching of salvation by grace through faith apart from works, by the working of signs and wonders through them.

3. The argument of James (vv. 14-21).

He took the fact declared by Peter and showed how it harmonized with the prophecy of Amos (Amos 9:11-15). He showed that the reception of the Gentiles was not in conflict but in strict harmony with God's plan. As set forth in James' speech, God's plan is as follows:

4. The taking out from among the Gentiles a people for His name (v. 14).

This is what is now going on, the preaching of the gospel to the ends of the earth, and the calling out of the church.

5. After the church is completed and removed, the Israelitish nation will be converted and restored to their land and privileges by the Lord Himself at His return (vv. 16, 17).

6. Following this will be the conversion of the world through the agency of converted Israel (v. 17, cf. Rom. 11:15). He showed that there is no conflict when the Scriptures are rightly divided. His judgment was that the Gentiles should not be troubled with things that are Jewish, but should be warned to "abstain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood."

7. The Jerusalem church came to a unanimous agreement and accepted the resolution offered by James. They not only sent a letter stating the decision of the conference, but took the wise precaution of sending influential men along with Paul and Barnabas to bear the same testimony by word of mouth. This letter denied the authority of the Judaizing teachers (vv. 23-24), and declared the method by which this decision had been reached (vv. 25-27). The Holy Spirit was to be given first place, and the Gentile believers were instructed to abstain from meats offered to idols, from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication.

8. The Decision Delivered to the Church (vv. 30-33).

The church was called together to hear the report. Its reading brought rejoicing. They were now free to prosecute the great missionary work.

Knowing How to Pray

The life of a man upon earth is a warfare; and it is much better, in the midst of enemies and dangers, to be acquainted with one fortress than with many forts. He that knows how to pray may be pressed, but cannot be overwhelmed.—Robert Leighton.

Enemies Hard to Fight

It will require more than a few hours of fasting and prayer to cast out such demons as selfishness, worldliness, and unbelief.—T. L. Cuyler.

Littlefield Reunion

A family reunion was held at Virgil H. Littlefield's, Sunday, July 29. A picnic lunch was served on the porch. A group picture was taken, after which they gathered in the living room, where old time songs were sung. Mrs. Horace Littlefield presided at the piano. Frank Smith of Auburn was the oldest member present, he is eighty years old, very active, and able to work every day. Some of the relatives had not met for fifty years and many were the stories of what Ned or Clint or Horace had done in former years. We suspect from their tales that boys forty or fifty years ago were as full of life and mischief for that matter as at the present time. It was unanimously voted to make this a permanent organization and officers were chosen for one year: Sidney Littlefield, president; Minnie Littlefield, treasurer; Catherine Curtis, secretary. It was voted to meet next year at J. C. Littlefield's home in Locke's Mills on the last Sunday in July, 1929. Those present were:
